Monthly comment

Bonds and equities fell simultaneously in October, as bond yields rose sharply and heightened geopolitical uncertainty weighed on market sentiment. The Hamas attack on Israel was the defining event of October. Regarding equities, the Bloomberg World in CHF terms dropped by 3.6%. The Swiss market was one of the worst performers, shedding 5.2% over the month while the US market was more resilient, with the S&P conceding only 2.2%. Bonds did not play their protective role, the global aggregate lost 1% in CHF terms. However, shelter has been provided by gold that return 6.7% in October.

The portfolio lost 1.1% in October, compared to the composite benchmark that depreciated by 2.0%. Equities and bonds contributed negatively to the performance over the month, while alternatives, and particularly the Swiss Physical Gold Plus fund, contributed positively. On the other hand, global equity fund Vanguard ESG Developed World All Country and Swiss UBS Equities Switzerland Passive fund contributed negatively. The currency exposure weighed on the monthly performance as CHF appreciated against every major currencies.

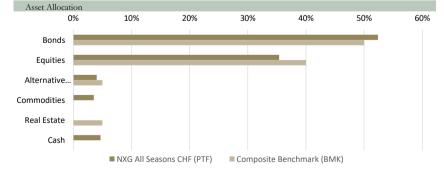

Quarterly US earnings season and GDP data showed strong economic activity, 70% of companies beating estimates. Profit growth is expected to reach 3.7% for the quarter, the first positive figure in a year. However, the season was not strong enough to divert attention from concerns about the Fed and geopolitical tensions. Equities have consolidated over the past three months, reaching attractive technical support levels and valuations. Record high bond yields and the expected end to central bank rate hikes should lead to a good performance from bonds over the next few quarters.
